Persons who in the enthusiasm of spring got busy and girdled their trees with tangle-foot to protect them against canker worms may discover more harm than good was done. The harm is resulting from their failure to remove the girdles. Cotton was placed next to the trees and the tangle-foot paper wrapped around this. This cotton makes a fine nesting place for insects. It holds moisture which softens the bark, making conditions excellent for insects to do damage. The tangle-foot has done all the good it will do this season. The girdles should be removed.

London, June 5.—The government's case against the London Times and Major E. H. Richardson, on the charge of revealing information useful to enemies of Great Britain, was dismissed today by Sir David Burnett in police court. The defense contended the information in question contained in a letter writter by Major Eichardson and published in the Times was perfectly well known to Germany. It was to the effect that the last of the French reserves were in the field, and that raw young recruits had been called up. The case was heard under the defense of the realm act.
